

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image processing system according to the present invention aiming at providing a function capable of efficiently managing and utilizing image data, comprises a display unit for 5 displaying on a screen a composite area as an aggregation of unit areas into which images are inserted, and an operation unit for inserting a processing target image into the unit area within the composite area.

008121-684260